

Art to Heart — Linda Yew

“I paint flowers so they will not die.” — Frida Kahlo

Dear friend,
Frida Kahlo recognised the ephemeral quality of flowers — that they last a very short time, and she tried to preserve their beauty by painting them! There are many things in life that we wish would last a long, long time — a cherished friendship, a well-loved toy, that last bite of our favourite snack, or simply a moment of happiness. How would you make them last? How would you “paint” them?

— Linda Yew

Activity

Lasting beauty

Have you ever wished that some things would last longer? Jot them down in the flowers below! Then, think of fun, creative ways to make their beauty last that little bit longer! Jot down your ideas in the watering cans.

